1 p. m., Saturday at the Palais Peachtree, would eclipse, in point of interest and attendance, any similar showing here. In preparation for it the company is rushing a full line of 1934 models in all available colors through from Flint. At least 11 models will be on the display floor when the show opens, Mr. Crooker promised.

The display will be held continuously, including Sunday, from Saturday, January 13, through Saturday, January 20. Some time during the progress of the show, or directly thereafter, the assembly of passenger cars will get under way at the huge Chevrolet plant, on Sawtell road, Mr. Crooker reported, after a conference with other company officials in New York. Peak production will be reached as quickly as possible in order to make prompt delivery to purchasers.

Mr. Crooker reported that at New der to make prompt delivery to purchasers.

Mr. Crooker reported that at New York, where the 1934 models were first displayed at special halls coincidental with the opening of the national auto show, the exhibits attracted public interest unparalleled in the company's history. In the metropolitan New York area, 91,000 people were clocked at the special Chevrolet exhibits, exclusive of those who saw the new models at the national show at Grand Central palace, despite unfavorable weather. Orders for retail delivery already taken when he left New York numbered about 1,000.

He said the New York experience was similar to that reported from other centers where the car has already been placed on display. At Detroit, where the cars are being shown at the largest hall in the city, orders for retail delivery taken in the first three days exceeded 450.

Commission Confirms Prison Farm Changes

Changes in the executive personnel of the state prison system, forecast several weeks ago, were consummated Thursday.

Major B. H. Dunaway, who has been superintendent of the prison farm at Milledgeville for more than six years, was transferred to the new farm in Tattnall county, where he will be warden and where B. M. Beasley, a brother of Representative John Beasley, will be superintendent. As forecast, Rollie H. Lawrence, of Milledgeville, succeeds Dunaway.

Warden W. L. Proctor, of the Milledgeville farm, will retire on March 1, it was announced. He will be succeeded by J. E. Smith, who, after March 1, will share the duties with Captain W. W. Beard, at present head of the tuberculosis camp. After March 1 the two wardens, one work. March 1 the two wardens, one working days and the other nights, will be in charge of both the farm and the prison camp. W. L. Hodges was named a deputy warden and assigned to the tuberculosis camp. The changes are effective at once, Chairman E. L. Rainey, of the prison commission, announced.

UNIFORM PRIMARY URGED FOR NAMING OF COMMISSIONERS

In anticipation of the meeting January 18 of the Fulton county democratic executive committee, the executive committee of the Association of Grand Jurors of Fulton county Thursday released copies of resolutions asking the committee to set the date for momination of four of the five county commissioners on the same date as the state primary.

the state primary.
One of the major matters facing the committee next Thursday will be designation of a primary date for the commissioners, and strong pressure was being applied to the committee to hold the commissioners, races at the same time that state officers are before the voters.

before the voters.

Copies of the resolutions, signed by Franklin B. Davis, chairman of the executive committee of the grand jurnors' organization, were forwarded to George L. Bell Jr., vice chairman of the executive committee.

Selection of a successor to the late Albert Howell, for many years chairman of the executive committee, also will be before the committee.
Following is the text of the resolutions:

Following is the text of the resolutions:

Resolved, that we oppose as most unwise the holding of a special primary for the election of Fulton county commissioners who will not take office until 1935; that such a primary should not be held until the general state primary in September; that a special election at this time isvolves large and unnecessary expense; that it denies to voters the opportunity to give mature consideration to the issues in such a campaign; that a special primary will not be as representative of the opinion of the voters as if held at the same time as the general primary in Septembr; and that there is no sound reason for giving an advantage to politicians by railroading through a quick primary to shut off independent candidates for county commissioners.

Resolved, that this resolution be forwarded to the vice chairman of the county democratic committee.

Although the state laws forbid sale of whisky and other intoxicating liquors, the city council some time ago adopted the ordinance, but its operation was prohibited by a superior court injunction.

It was on the injunction that the city appealed the local superior court's ruling in the nature of a bill of exceptions which will be forwarded to the supreme court for a review.

In defending the local liquor-sale law, the city argued on the one hand that injunction proceedings were not the proper means of action against operation of the ordinance, and, on the other hand, that opponents of the ordinance had recourse in criminal action. The bill contended that under the state's prohibition laws, criminal action. The bill contended that under the state's prohibition laws, criminal action. The statement, made public Tuesday, of the activities of the Georgla agency of the federal Home Owners' Loan Corporation, revealing that 33 loans involving $60,000 were closed on Wednesday and that opened in Atlanta, emphasizes the playing in the federal reconstruc- aster for Atlanta.

While there has been some criticism, especially in other states, of the progress made by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in extending relief to the thousands of distressed home owners in the country, the apparent delay is not surprising in view of the handi-

The last conference was typical. He was questioned first by a group of newsmen, who are specialists on railroad financing. Only an expert on that subject could know what it was all about. He answered all questions except one, and on that he pleaded that it was a technical issue beyond his knowledge. Then came a more technical argument about the intricacies of water diversion under the St. Lawrence treaty. He knew things about that also, which only the experts could understand.

At other times he has shown just as intimate an acquaintance with corporation financing systems and other subjects. The conclusion is inescapable that he either knows his busi-

FENCING—This does not mean he answers all questions frankly and completely. He ducks and parries possibly half of them and this is rather to be expected, because no one expects him to confess all. The remarkable thing is that he makes up his mind on the spur of the moment as to whether he will answer or how he will evade them. He seems to sense trick questions very quickly and fends them off without embarrassing results. PROFESSORS -- A brain truster sat up most of the night recently dictating an important memo to Mr. Roosevelt. It had to be at the White House next day.

For the sake of speed he used a dictaphone and it required seven records to absorb his voluminous dissertation. When he took the records to his stenographer next morning, he found there was nothing on them. He had failed to connect the apparatus properly. The net result was: seven spoiled records, an irate disposition and a day of delay. That ought to prove something or other about college pro-

LIQUOR-The dickering with foreign nations over liquor imports is being so carefully covered up that only a few of our officials know we have concluded a deal with one certain nation. Not a word about that deal has been reduced to writing. It exists simply as a gentlemen's understanding between a few of officials and a representative of that country. It provides that the foreign nation will consume a certain amount of our goods in exchange for a liberal allowance for a liquor market in the United

The federal alcohol control board has granted every request to import liquor from that country, without question.

PORK-The British have been slow to catch on to this system. That is one of the reasons why the permits for importation of Scotch have been so long delayed.

What we want is for them to eat more American pork, but they cannot work up an appetite for it. They have an agreement about 62 per cent of their pork from Denmark. Also their nationalist government is campaigning to make the British Isles

Our officials have been adamant. They say Britain must figure out a way to eat more of our pork or we cannot figure out a way to drink their whisky. Another inner difficulty has arisen through Britain's trade tussle with Ireland. It started when De Valera refused to pay and annuities to the British crown. Britain retaliated by putting a tariff on Irish bacon and meat products. Up to then the Irish sent their bacon to Britain and bought from us bacon for home consumption, making money on the deal. Now they must eat their own bacon and our big meat men are groaning to the state department about it.

They were told that if we induced Britain to eat pork we would be doing well, without getting mixed up in the British bacon fight. Such is the existing condition of international diplomacy.

NOTES-The army crowd considers that the purchase of 100 fighting planes (including 46 bombers) is this country's answer the French offer to scrap half its bombing planes.

Our officials have been tipped privately through diplomatic channels that the soviets are about to take a slap at Hitler. Russia is supposed to have concluded a new trade treaty with France, involving the purchase of ten million dollars worth of steel from the French. The Russian steel market was formerly hogged by Vengeance usually costs more than it is worth.

When the statesmen of one land adopt trade restrictions to injure and repay another for a similar act of unfriendliness, they are stooping to the ancient and imbecilic practice of cutting off the nose to spite Repeal brings an opportunity to "get even" with the French. They have, since the war, carried on a campaign of propaganda to njure America; they have done many things, such as withdrawing their gold and sponsoring a raid on the dollar, that indirectly harmed all Even so, retaliation is stupid and leads only to further retaliations.

makes statesmanship a kicking match between childish old men.

But if our people should not injure another land in spite, certainly are under no obligation to injure themselves to benefit another land that is unfriendly.

People who advocate the admission of French wines repeat the ancient argument that other lands can buy more from us only as we buy more from them.

That is true under normal conditions. But the French employ many and devious devices, including common trickery, to discriminate against and keep out American goods. There is no reason to believe that the purchase of French wines would increase American sales in France by so much as a dime's worth.

France has no reason to hate America, except that it is hard to forgive one we have wronged. And if we wronged him after he saved us from destruction, we must find reason to hate him in order to justify ourselves.

No matter. The point to remember is that neither gratitude nor sound economics can justify the purchase of French wines.

California and other wine-grape sections can supply America's needs.

And a dollar sent to France is a dollar forever lost, while a dollar pent in California remains in America to buy shoes, shirts and automowhy feed a neighbor's dog that bites you while your own gnaws a bone?

Price-Fixing Efforts of Government Meeting Many Obstacles and Achieving Scant Success.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 .- Price-fixing by the government, direct and indirect, is traveling a rough road.

Both the NRA and the AAA, which have been trying in certain instances to stabilize prices, have run into difficulties of such proportions that the whole theory is in danger of being rendered unworkable unless the government is willing to extend its control over all forms

The lumber code stipulates that lumber is not to sell below cost. But what is cost? Rulings have been made and an elaborate system worked out whereby between 2 and 3 per cent is added to retail lumber prices. But other factors caused prices to go up. Hence the construction people are saying that business is being diverted from lumber to competing products. The whole lumber code now has been reopened. To support the price schedule, production had to be allotted. This meant hardship to efficient units.

tinue operations. In oil, the government was to engage in a regulation of the industry by the fixing of prices. The NRA economists opposed it but the president overruled them. But the planning and co-ordinating committee of the industry, which had on it many of the members of the industry who believe in price-fixing, finally came to a compromise with the anti-price-fixing companies. The schedule was to have gone into effect last October, but has been delayed again and again and each month brings further skepticism inside the government itself as to how price-fixing can be effective.

The most ambitious program of price-fixing was planned for milk and was to operate under the agricultural adjustment administration.

This plan now has broken down and another formula has been proposed to help the farmer get more income. Its success is threatened by some of the same obstacles that have been encountered before.

The AAA sought under the codes to fix the price of milk from the cow to the doorstep. It established prices that distributors were to pay farmers and that consumers were to pay distributors, and so on. license sysem was applied to all handlers of milk as well as producers. The lower courts sustained the licensing power even though it involved business within a state. It is still before the higher courts for adjudica and would arrange" that T. A. T. get a contract for the transcontinental route provided it agreed to merge with Western Air Express.

Statement Deleted.

Under Black's proddings, Sheaffer said this statement of belief was the part deleted before the senate comparing. The government tried to meet the crisis by buying butter, planning to take up the surplus and use it for relief purposes. This held the price up to about 22 cents a pound. Prices began jumping higher than the price at which the government was willing to buy the surplus. Farmers began to increase their production. They even milked beef cattle. After the government had spent about $12,000,000, Secretary Wallace gave it up as a bad job and stopped trying to stabilize. Prices then broke 6 cents a pound, and the butter market is not happy about it.

Other questions, however, added complications. Retailers offered to sell their milk at prices lower than the price the AAA fixed. They said they could make ample profit at the lower prices and pay the farmer as much or more than other distributors did. So the consumers asked a question: Was it right to send people to jail for benefiting the buyer? Jury trials would be expected in case of violations. And experience shows that bootlegging of booze got rather sympathetic action from juries. So bootlegging of milk might get at least the same, if not better treatment. The government didn't want to depend on juries.

When it became apparent that the government wasn't going to force the issue in the courts, the producers in the Chicago area asked the secretary of agriculture to terminate the agreement and he complied. Now there's a price war and a milk strike in the Chicago district. The AAA has a plan now whereby it would get a price to the farmer and, in some instances, a maximum above which distributors cannot sell.

This is intended to supply a margin for competition and other differ-But-and here's the rub-if the milk price isn't in exact balance with butter and cheese prices, then milk will flow in the most profit-ble direction. Bootlegging of milk has sprung up on a large scale, as producers try to dump their surplus. It probably will go on under any form of price-fixing. The central problem is one of enforcement and it is difficult, as experience proves, to enforce any law in which public sentiment is not crystallized. And while the new deal may yet perform many miracles, it is doubtful whether it can develop a public sentiment in favor of paying a higher price for something which certain distribu-tors feel can be sold at a lower price, especially when the article happens to be an item like milk in the budget of the impoverished families

Story of the Opera "La Boheme"

"La Boheme"

"La Boheme," music by Giacomo Puccini and text by Giuseppe Giacosa and Luigi Illica, is a four-act opera founded on Henri Murger's book, "La Vie de Boheme." It was first produced at the Teatro Reggie, Turin, Italy, on February 1, 1896. It is a popular favorite among the operas for it combines the gay and the pathetic into a most fascinating picture of student life in the Latin quarter of Paris in the early 19th century.

Act one pictures the attic home of the inseparable students—Rodolfo, the poet, played by Lawrence Power, tenor; Marcello, the painter, portrayed by Mario Valle; Colline, the philosopher, created by Nino Ruisi, and Schaunard, the musician, acted by Dalle Molle—a room large and sparse.

tenor; Marcello, the painter, portrayed by Mario Valle; Colline, the philosopher, created by Nino Ruisi, and Schaunard, the musician, acted by Dalle Molle—a room large and sparsely furnished. Marcello, while painting on his never-finished picture, "The Passage of the Red Sea," steps at intervals to blow his hands to warm them, and Rodolfo gazes meditatively out the window. They burn the manuscript of one of Rodolfo's plays, one act at a time, enjoying the blazes, although they do not derive much warmth from them. Colline enters, stamping with cold, but soon they are all cheered by the entrance of Schaunard with plenty of food and money. Their festivities are cut short by the landlord, who demands his rent, but he joins them in a drink, and when they have him drunk they push him out of the room.

When his companions go off to the Cafe Momus, Rodolfo stays behind to work. A knock on his door admits a young neighbor, who has come to borrow a light for her candle, It is Mimi, who makes artificial flowers for a living, sung by Annunciata Garrotto. She is seized with a fit of coughing and swoons, but Rodolfo revives her with a little wine. She goes out, but remembers that she lost her key when she fainted. As they are hunting for the key the draft blows both their candles out, and as they grope over the floor their hands touch, awakening in both a realization of their newfound love. Rodolfo secretly puts the key in his pocket, and there follows rapturously beautiful music as they tell each other of themselves, joining in impassioned song in the joy of their mutual love.

Act two is a gay scene in the Cafe Momus on Christmas Eve. Rodolfo

She is easily recog-nized as an artist.

Mario Valle, as Telramund, employed a sonorous and colorful baritone voice in an interesting interpretation. Nino Ruisi, who has all week been consistently fine, presented a well-sung role in the king of Germany. I suppose all things have their weak points, and the chorus was one of the outstanding ones in "Lohengrin." A few union rules broken, perhaps, which would have allowed a few more good old-fashioned rehearsals of the chorus would have received better results.

The orchestra was dependable with good ensemble and imaginative interpretations of the fine Wagnerian expressions. The prelude to the third act yied with that of the first for appreciative reception.

der today while a mob of 2,000 rioted in the corridors for entrance to the courtroom.

Weak from illness and appearing broken by the accusation against her, the 62-year-old woman physician was carried in a chair to the door of Judge Joseph B. David's courtroom. She then walked to a seat at her cousel's table and sat impassive while prosecutors demanded that she pay with her life for the death of her talented young daughter-in-law. Rheta Gardner Wynekoop.

Absent from the courtroom was the slain girl's husband, Earle Wynekoop, favorite son of the frail, stooped physician.

Another son, Walker, shook his head and said:

"I don't know," when asked of Earle's whereabouts.

In Seclusion.

It was understood, however, that the young widower still was in seclusion, the blinds drawn, in the gloomy old Wynekoop mansion where Rheta's body was found face downward on a surgical operating table in the basement last November 21. Earle has not been subpoeneed slow-

Certainly no other film has offered Certainly no other film has offered a dance with half the beauty and pulse-quickening thrill of the "Carioca." This is a sort of Brazilian apotheosis of the Rhumba and has never been seen north of the Equator before. How those dark senoritas and their supple partners dance it! The cast is headed by Dolores del Rio, Gene Raymond, Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Raoul Roulien, etc. Fred Astaire almost steals the show with his solo dancing, although Del Rio was never before so alluring and Gene Raymond is the handsomest of all leading men.

Gene Raymond is the handsomest of all leading men.

The plot of the picture doesn't matter much, though it is satisfying enough. Its locale shifts from Miami, by way of a lonely stretch of fropic beach, to Rio de Janiero, and its musical numbers are superb.

In addition to the sensational Carioca number, the picture has a finale that is astonishing. In this hundreds of lovely ladies of the ensemble do their stuff on the upper wings of giant planes, flying a thousand feet

Uday Shankar Named

For City of His Birth

Uday Shankar he world famous Hindu dancer who, with his company and orchestra is to appear at the Capitol theater next Sunday afternoon, was named for the town of his nativity. He was born in Udaypur, city of Bengal noted for its long history of artistry.

Pandit Shyaman Shankar, father of Uday Shankar, migrated to western India from Bengal and became the private secretary of his highness the Maharaja of Jhalawar. This maharaja was an ardent lover of the arts and it was the encouragement be gave young Uday, who from earliest childhood showed strong signs of artistic precocity, that developed the boy into the greatest dancer of his race. Uday is also a remarkable musician, playing upon many of the strange Hindu instruments which provide the music for the religious dances performance is one of complete reverence for the series and his performance is one of complete reverence for the swestern world, uses more than 100 of these instruments, by the way.

Shankar specializes in the interpretation of religious Hindu dances and his performance is one of complete reverence for the sacred origin of his dances. He has a dozen or more great dancers of his native land with him, as well as his special partner, Simkie, a French girl, who has embraced the Hindu faith.

The Atlanta presentation of these rare dances will take place at 2:30 sunday afternoon at the Capitol theater. The attraction is one of the Celebrity Series and seats for the dance performance alone may be obtained this week at the Cable Piano Company.

METHODIST EDITOR EXCORIATES LYNCHING

Dr. King Flays "White Hoodlums" in Vigorous Editorial in Christian Advocate.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 11.—(P)
In a fiery denunciation of lynching,
Dr. W. P. King, editor of the Christian Advocate, official organ of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, says in an editorial published today that lynchers "are as depraved and conscienceless as the guiltiest victims whom they shoot or burn."

Lashing out against "white hoodlums" who he said were responsible for lynchings, Dr. King declared that if this element is not "checked and dominated by the better element of society it will mean the destruction of our civilization."

He asserted that "lynchers not only lynch a human being; they lynch the law itself, which is the safeguard of all human beings."

Comparing kidnaping and lynching,
he wrote:

"Kidnaping is mainly an offense."

A boisterous reception committee tossed a lef around his neck.

"I'm glad that's behind me," he declared. "Since 7 o'clock last night there were low hanging clouds and it was hazy all the way in. Conditions reminded me of our flight along the Mexican coast from Coco Solo, Panama."

A microphone was placed before the commander and he introduced his fel-

"We never were out of radio contact at any time," he said.

The planes lined up impressively along the big ramp. The crews were tired but happy. Many needed shaves. Each plane was made shipshape be-fore it was turned over to mechanics. The crowd surged around the fliers. Admiral Praises Flight.

An aloha committee of former class-mates of McGinnis at Annapolis flew in with the squadron from a few miles at sea.

A few moments after word of the landing had been flashed to San Francisco, Commander McGinnis was handed the following message from Admiral David F. Sellers, commander of the fleet in the Pacific, who watched the take-off:

"The commander-in-chief of the United States fleet heartily congratulates the squadron commander and through him the officers and men of Patrol Squadron No. 10 on the successful completion of the San Francisco-Pearl Harbor flight.

"From personal observation, the commander-in-chief is convinced that the success of the flight is largely due to the skill and conscientious hard work of preparation on the part of all hands.

Through the shouting throng, army

Through the shouting throng, army, navy and civic celebrities moved to the broad cement ramp that slopes down to the water's edge and up which the planes were to taxi.

The greeters included an aloha committee, ready with the Hawaiian leis; Mayor Fred Wright, Charles Frazier, president of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce; General Wells, Admirals Yarnell and Watts, and Colonel Brant, commander of the eighteenth composite wing, military-aviation unit.

Difficulties Overcome

Difficulties were met and sur-mounted.

Unexpectedly, the squadron had trouble at the start. One of the 20,000frouble at the start. One of the 20,000-pound, twin-motored craft pulled sluggishly into the air from the smooth surface of Paradise Cove, It was nearly two hours before the other planes could ascend and fall into line. wings of the planes through the chill air that hovered over the restless Pacific. As they approached the 600-mile point a new menace was met.

Swirling fog reached up and enveloped the craft. The squadron divided into two sections for greater safety. Commander McGinnis radioed for searchlights.

In almost monotonous succession the squadron had flashed at an average speed of 103 land miles an hour over the navy vessels Sandpiper, Shenck, Breese. Whippoorwill, Wright. Pelican and Avocet before the land plane sighted an outflung island of the Hawaiian group.

A radio beam from the Pearl harbor naval headquarters station guided them straight to their destination as their journey neared an end. Not once during the long night hours had they lost their true course.

p. m., Hololulu time.

The sky was grey as the squadron took form in the distance. The drabness overhead was relieved by occasional ragged holes in the cloud blanket through which the warm sun gleamed. The giant radio towers which guided the planes stood like sentinels over the harbor.

Honolulu made it a holiday. Stores were closed.

The widespread shores of Pearl harbor were dotted with colorful crowds. Individuals scrambled for vantage points. Police were vigilant on Diamond Head Point, cast of the city, from which fliers from the mainland are usually first sighted.

Sighted 15 Miles Away.

At 5:40 p. m. (E.S.T.) the planes were discerned over Koko Head, 15 miles distant.

Tired but smiling broadly, McGinnis stepped from his ship.

"The first thing I want is a cigaret," he said.

Atlantans Interested In Dreda Aves' Appearance Here

Atlantans are muchly interested in the success of Dreda Aves, one of the leading members of the Chicago Opera Company, whose magnificent mezzo-soprano voice has been heard here this week in the productions presented by this well-known musical orcanization. The beautiful opera star has a number of friends here made through her friendship of long standing with Mrs. Benjamin King, of ing with Mrs. Benjamin King. of Washington, D. C., formerly Miss Marjorie Brown, daughter of the late Colonel and Mrs. Edward T. Brown, of this city, who also maintained a home in the national capital.

The former Miss Brown and Miss Aves met when they were young girls on Lake Erie, where their parents had summer homes. When the former Miss Brown was married to Mr. King, 13 years ago, she chose Miss Aves as one of her bridesnaids, as well as Mrs. George McCarty, who was formerly Miss Passie May Ottley, Atlantans attending the wedding recall the gifted young singer's brunette beauty upon this auspicious occasion, which took place at the home of Colonel and Mrs. Brown in Washington, and which was attended by fashionable society, including Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

The beautiful Miss Aves, whose given name is Ethelreda, is the daughter of a prominent Episcopal clergy-ter of a prominent Episcopal clergy-man of Houston, Texas, where the opera star was born and reared. She has enjoyed huge success in the opera-tic field, having sung with the Metropolitan Opera Company as well as a number of companies in foreign coun-tries. Avondale Garden Club Makes Plans For Beautification

At the January meeting of the Avondale Garden Club, at which Mrs. Avondale Garden Club, at which Mrs. O. C. Waters was hostess, plans for shielding the street car tracks from view on Avondale road were discussed. This was one of the original projects of the club and will be carried out by the committee of which Mrs. W. A. Spittler is chairman. The shrubs have been obtained and with the help of the CWA the planting will start at an early date.

St. Mark Methodist church was the scene of the quiet ceremony at which Miss Margaret Leslie Whittle became the bride of James O. Hargis Jr. Thursday morning at 10:30. Dr. J. W. Johnson performed the ceremony in the presence of a group of relatives and close friends. Floor standards held white chrysanthemums and seven-branched candelabra holding burning tapers were interspersed among the palms and ferns, which formed an effective background.

Mrs. Bonita Crowe, organist, was in charge of the musical program and Glenn Simms sang "O Promise Me" and "Utuli." Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Crowe played a program including: "Choral Prayer." Rain, Warmer Today Forecast for City

Rain and warmer today, with a Imperature ranging from 36 to 60 egrees, was forecast Thursday by the weather bureau.

Thursday was colder than the 34 minimum reading at the weather bureau. At the home of George W. Mindling, in Lenox Park, the thermometer registered 24 degrees, and there were reports of readings as low as 22. The official maximum was 52.

There was no rain.

The discrepancy was explained by the fact that a heavy pall of smoke was suspended over Atlanta Thursday morning. This kept out much of the cold weather.

Heavy frost formed in Atlanta and all over the southeast Thursday, ex-tending as far south as the Florida line. Jacksonville reported 35 de-grees and Mobile, 40. It was rainng in Texas Thursday.

It's a Long Time Between Tildens, as the U. S. L. T. A. Knows

The old gentleman seems to be able to bound around on

I am referring to Mr. William Tatum Tilden II, who spanked Ellsworth Vines very soundly on the evening of January 10 in Madison Square Garden as some 16,000 looked on.

It was only the day before the match that Ellsworth Vines gave out a statement to the effect that he was delighted to be in professional ranks; that all his keenness for the game had come back, and that he was ready to go in the form which had made him amateur champion of the United States.

I rather feared then for William Tatum Tilden. But Ellsworth Vines failed utterly to run the old gentleman ragged. In fact, I doubt if he disturbed the impeccable crease of the gentleman's flannels.

The obvious fact is that our best tennis player, amateur or professional, is William Tilden, the tall fellow who is well past 40 years old. Tennis is a strenuous sort of game, putting great wear and tear on the legs and lungs. Tilden's victory once again stamps him as one with three other immortals of sport, all of who were produced by the golden era of from 1920 to

That era produced many great figures. But there were four who stood out above the others. There were Babe Ruth, the hitter; Bobby Jones, the golf champion; Jack Dempsey, the fighter, and Tilden, the tennis player. These were the scintillating figures in the great, rich sport dramas of those rich, mad years. All others were merely supporting figures in the respective casts.

Dempsey is getting rich again showing himself to smalltown people who never had the chance to see him and will pay for that privilege. Ruth is on the way out, having not more than a year or so of major league baseball left to him. Jones has retired from competition and will return this year for but one tournament, the Masters' invitation tournament at Augusta.

Tilden has never quit competition. He lost the national amateur title a few years ago, but now it is fairly well established that he lost it not because he was inferior to his opponent in tennis but because his legs would not stand the grind of a week's play.

Put Tilden in there against any one player and he would win, across an afternoon's series of matches, more than his

HAD SOMETHING ELSE.

The four great figures of the golden era had something else in addition to speed and courage and skill and ability in their own competition. They were not merely great in their fields; they possessed a magnetic personality; they had a regal bearing in competition; they had an intangible something which was nonetheless very tangible.

Tilden and Ruth had something else. They each had an imperial attitude; regal gestures; a sense of the drama, and an eagerness to break the gallery into cheers for the hero or to evoke hisses for the villain when cast for the part.

Tilden made enemies because of his insistence on the grand gesture, the beau geste. He walked on the courts as if he were the only person of importance who would step upon them that

He was, I am sure, wearing the purple robes of his profession with all the regality with which the late John L. Sullivan wore the robes of heavyweight champion. He was the champion and so he went about smacking the bars and offering to whip any blankety-blank who thought he was a better man than Sullivan.

Tilden said nothing. He looked it. And acted it. And was. And is the greatest tennis player the world has ever seen.

MR. TILDEN THROWS MORE DARTS.

In years past it was the favorite indoor sport of Mr. Tilden to throw barbs at the U. S. L. T. A. He won most of his tilts. Since his retirement to professional ranks he has continued sticking barbs into the epidermis of the committee.

But this week William Tilden has suddenly taken the entire quiver of barbs and flung them all at one and the same time. As a result, the U. S. L. T. A. and Davis cup committee appears much like a literary porcupine stuck with figurative barbs.

The article in question appears in this week's Saturday Evening Post and is well worth reading. Tilden admits the sincerity of the officials but then proceeds to make out a case, to his own satisfaction at least, which is most severe.

The committee appears hopelessly bound in red tape; completely intolerant and possessed of the usual temperament of our best badge wearers.

The badge wearers at any athletic contest are always many in number; always of different minds; always impressed with their own importance, and always in the way. This may be put down as one sure hard and fast fact. And I suppose the tennis badge wearers are no different from other badge mearers.

Tilden declares the Davis cup committee could contribute no more to the defeat of the Davis cup teams than if they actually labored to that end.

It is a striking article and it will enhance Mr. Tilden's personal popularity not one bit in so far as the governing bodies of tennis are concerned. But it rings true, especially as it follows the absurd and ridiculous actions of last summer when the team had lost.

AN OPEN TOURNAMENT.

The U. S. L. T. A. has always stood against an open tennis fournament. They did not care for the class of people engaged in tennis.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 11.—(P)— Frank X. Shields, of New York, the United States No. 1 player, defeated Carroll Turner, of Miami, former state champion, 63, 6-3, today in the quarter-finals of the Miami Biltmore tennis championship play.

Turner, whose only hope to win from Shields was to avoid errors, double-faulted and let several scoring opportunities slip past him.

By the same score, Bryan M. (Bit-sy) Grant Jr., of Atlanta, eliminated Ricaro Morales, Cuba's Davis cup ace. Grant, playing an unusually steady game, took the first set with only two games going to deuce. The second was more closely con-tested and the players alternated the first six games. Then Grant won a first six games. Then Grant won a Turner started very well and had a fine chance to score on the top-ranking player in the first set. In the fifth game he broke through Shields' service with two fine placements and a double-fault.

Arthur Hendrix, of Lakeland, Fla., recently crowned state champion, experienced Hamm's difficulty when he faced Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, the national fourth ranking player, in the next match on the schedule. Sutter won easily, 6-3, 6-4.

Sutter, runner-up in last year's Biltmore competition, proved too good a stylist, especially from the base lines, for the youthful Hendrix. The match's high light came when Hendrix took the first game of the second set at love on Sutter's service.

French Expected To Take Initiative in Forcing Body To Act.

By Alan Gould,

Associated Press Sports Editor. Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(P)—Fresh impetus appeared generated today for the proposals to make national as well as world open championships a definite part of the tennis tournament program, following Big Bill Tilden's decisive victory over Ellsworth Vines before a record American tennis gallery in the first of their series of program. lery in the first of their series of pro fessional matches.

Tennis authorities, outside the pro Tennis authorities, outside the pro-fessional camp, were reluctant to pre-dict what will be done this year but it was learned that the French may take the initiative in persuading the International Tennis Federation this March to lift the barriers heretofore raised against sanctioning the min-gling of amateurs and professionals in open competition.

FRANCE ENVIOUS.

The prospect is that the French tennis leaders, seeking an outstanding attraction to make up for the loss of the Davis Cup matches in Paris, will swing over to the side of open tournaswing over to the side of open tourna-ment advocates and seek to stage the first official world championship this year, before or after Wimbledon. Be-fore this transpires, however, they may have to do some tall negotiating with Messrs. Tilden, Vines and Henri Cochet, who have joined the profes-sional forces.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association made a gesture of defi-ance last year by sanctioning a na-tional open tournament but failed to conduct the event, estensibly because of failure to agree on dates with the Germantown (Pa.) Cricket Club. The U. S. L. T. A. meets this Febru-ary in Pittsburgh and may pave the way for definite action.

'Old Master' Still Rules

Bill Tilden, the "old master," still rules the tennis world. His defeat of Ellsworth Vines, many years his junior, in New York Wednesday night proves that he is one of the greatest athletes and champions the sport world has ever known. Vines and other tennis experts say that "Big Bill" was at his peak in the New York match, thrilling the huge crowd with his brilliant stroking and smashing game.

A giant youngster, Alfred Howell, six-foot-four-inch, 17-year-old center, will lead Columbus' attack against the Smithies. The giant weighs 255 pounds and is plenty fast on the court, so reports from Columbus say. He played tackle on the football team when it appeared here last fall against G. M. A., at College Park, and was the center of attraction.

Tech High's attack will be centered about Captain Red Pittman as forward and Alternate Captain Herbert Schutte, at guard. Pittman scored more than 20 points in the University School warm-up.

JACKET SEASON

Coach Dodd Encouraged Over Prospects at Flats for Race.

By Jimmy Jones.

Georgia Tech's varsity baseball team will play a 20-game schedule this spring, starting on April 6, it was announced yesterday.

The Jacket diamondeers, coached by Bobby Dodd for the third consecutive season, will report for practice on March 15, according to present plans. The schedule will include four games each with Vanerbilt, Auburn, Alabama, Georgia and Oglethorpe, Dodd stated. They will be home-and-home series of two games each. The schedule here will open with Van-derbilt.

PROSPECTS GOOD. Coach Dodd feels encouraged over prospects for a team this year. Bill Hogsed, flashy third baseman, is his only major loss. He has five outfielders, three of his infielders, a catcher and four pitchers to pick club from. The returning pitching staff is headed by Sam Stribling, the only veteran. He was a steady workman last year and should be a star this season. Waits, a sophomore, looks good to walks, a sophomore, looks season. Waits, a sophomore, looks good to make a place on the staff. Pug Boyd, who won his spurs last year behind the bat, will be the first-string catcher no doubt. On the infield, Hoot Gibson returns to play first; Hardin, a vet-eran, is back for second, and Sun Dial Martin and Grossi as shortstop can-didates. Dodd may shift Martin to third base this year. Either that, or he will bring Jimmy Slocum in from the outfield to try his hand at that position.

EXPERIENCED MEN.

EXPERIENCED MEN.

Dodd has a fine group of experienced outfielders. They include Tommy Spradling, Johnny Ferguson and Shorty Roberts, regular trio of last year, not to mention Johnny Pool, also a letter man, and Slocum.

"We ought to do pretty well if we can fill up the gap at third base," Dodd stated yesterday.

Since the Dixie College league disbanded, Tech has been playing a representative schedule, mostly with old members of the group. Frank Anderson, of Oglethorpe, is starting a move to revive the league, but no definite progress has been made thus far.

"Go on. What came off after you dropped in?"

"Well, me and Mr. Cresap we had one whale of a row—him jawing at me and coising at me and me jawing back at him."

Bray looked across at me and gave a wry wink and proceeded to moralize:

In short, Abbott figures, like most others of his experience, that baseball is a game of percentage, and that the gamble on the intentional base on balls is about fifty-fifty, any way you take it. The Old Master.

Fifteen years ago—back in 1919—I saw Bill Tilden face Bill Johnston in the final test for the national tennis championship. Big Bill was no mere kid then. He was 26 years old and he had been hammering away at a title for several years. Tilden was a college tennis player and a pretty good one. So he has been in the thick of this game for about 25 years. Yet at the age of 41 he looked to City Will Never Get Schedule Break Otherwise; Shores Trainer.

By Jimmy Jones.

Atlanta's week of baseball in Jan-uary was in the process of disinte-gration last night as President Wil-bert Robinson and Manager Spencer Abbott prepared today to wend their way back southward to Dover Hall for a riffle or so at the wild life

A host of minor deals were ironed out yesterday, however, such as dis-cussion of rookie players seeking jobs, the pseudo-Sunday schedule that Un-cle Wilbert brought back from Memphis and a round of the grounds at the ball park.

Mr. Robinson returned from Memphis yesterday morning to report the usual "handout" on the allotment of Southern league games for Atlanta. And it will be just another raw deal, unless Atlanta can manage to get Sunday baseball.

"I took along two schedule drafts and had another drawn up by a dis-interested party, but Larry Gilbert, who bosses the committee, already had his schedule drawn and it is a cut and dried proposition, unless we get Sunday ball." Uncle Robby pointed Six votes will adopt a schedule and Gilbert has four lined up in Memphis, Birmingham, New Orleans and Little Rock. That crowd always ran the league, anyway.

In case Atlanta does manage to play on the Sabbath, Gilbert promises to switch nine Sunday dates here as Big Bill had no easy road. He was 27 before he finally broke up the dominance of Bill Johnston, his leading rival for many years.

A year of professional competition, with the financial strain no longer hacking at his concentration, will take Vines a long way.

The Crackers, of course, eventually get their allotment of home games. But they will come at the latter part of the season, which is all right if the Crackers are winning and very bad if they are not. Every effort will be made to get baseball here on Sunday this year. The Atlanta public voted build for it last year and three Sunday exhibitions have been scheduled for the spring as test games, and yor Key and many other city leaders favor Sunday ball.

In Georgia's Fields and Streams By H. A. CARTER

The crows are calling for attention again. Several readers of this column have sent in or telephoned data about the winter concentration points of crows. It seems that there are several such points that have to be considered.

Yet I am not thoroughly satisfied that the crow should be drastically reduced in numbers. The crow species that we have in north Georgia is much less destructive than the fish crows of the coastal region. These fish crows are without doubt the most detrimental factors in keeping the herous from reaching more abundant numbers. I am told on reliable authority that at a certain heron rookery in the state of Florida, fish crows avecounted for 50 per cent of the total number of eggs in the colony during early breeding season. It was confirmed that the fish crow is guilty of despoiling the nests of wild turkeys. If fish crows become too numerous, extinction of our wild life is almost inevitable. It may be that the facts disclosed in the study of crows will indicate that both the fish

Mehre Is Mentioned As New Yale Coach

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 11.—Reports from New York city that the name of Harry Mehre, University of Georgia coach, had come up "in outside discussion" by members of the football committee of Yale University, which has been holding daily meetings in New York this week, were enthusiastically received on the campus by undergraduates and alumni who favor the Notre Dame type of football for

For the past several days there have been rumors that the choice would in all probability be between Tad Jones, former Eli mentor, and a "dark horse."

Mehre's supporters here tonight openly expressed the conviction that Mehre would be the most logical "dark horse." Late tonight it was learned that the Yale Alumni Weekly, which will be issued in the morning, will strongly oppose the choice of any one outside the Yale alumni for head coach. At the same time Frank Butterworth demanded the appointment of Tad Jones.

Speculators Warned To Sell U.S. Cotton Options at Once

SUFFER SETBACKS

CINCAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—OBSORPHISTORY September 19 1 1.—(87)—

WASHINGTON. Jan. 11.—(87)—

Speculators who have been buying government cotton options from proposed producer to recised and sent in by producer to recise and sent in by producer bearish construction placed on crop forecasts from Russia tended also to pull the wheat market lower.

Wheat closed unstable near the day's bottom level, 1 to 1 1-2 cents under yesterday's finish. Corn 1-2 to 3-4 down, oats 3-8 to 1-2 off, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to 7 cents gain.

Corn and oats followed the action to arrive were increased, the total being the largest for one day in about a month. Fastern shipping demand for corn was less active.

Increasing stocks of lard, with downturns of hog values and of creats, made the provision market average lower.

EAST POINT C. OF C.

J. E. Hughie was re-elected president of the East Point Chamber of Commerce Thursday night at the annual election of officers.

Others renamed were M. O. Hemperley, treasurer, and J. M. Harkinssecretary, while C. S. Wynn, vice president, was the only new name among the officers. The chamber will have its annual banquet Thursday night, January 25, at the East Point Woman's Club, it was announced.

Among the projects to be sponsored by the organization for 1934 is the municipal ownership of lights and water for the city. A project for a power plant in East Point which was agitated last year was killed by the city council but the Chamber of Commerce plans to make new efforts to obtain a municipal electric and wa'er plant, it was said.

TO TAKE NEW POST,

Brigadier General Robert O. Vandom, New Methors, new commanding officer, arrived in, Atlanta Thursday and will assume his new command at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Cummins testified on behalf of all Georgia trunk line roads against freight rate reductions proposed by the commission.

Railronds in this section have been more seriously affected by depressed conditions than lines in other parts of the country, he said, testifying that railroads in Georgia dropped from a net railway operating revenue of $88,000,000 in 1927 to $12,500,000 in 1932. He said most of the important lines in this territory were in receivership, and not one trunk line in Georgia was paying dividends.

Georgia was paying dividends.

Operating Expenses Cut.

By strictest economy, Cummins said, Georgia railroads have cut their operating expenses 50 per cent from $400,000,000 in 1926 to about $200,000,000 in 1932.

This reduction, he said, was accom-

This reduction, he said, was accomplished by establishment of mixed train service instead of separate pas-senger and freight service, elimina-tion of daily local freights, reduction in the number of employes, consoli-dation of section forces and districts, reductions in station maintenance, mechanization of former hand proc-esses, use of second-hand material, operation of locomotives over more than one division so as to reduce the number of power units that must be kept in repair, and other means. Extensive use of creosoted ties and timbers in past years has permit-ted a cut from $110,000,000 in 1928 to $50,000,000 in 1932 for road main-tenance, without affecting the safety tenance, without affecting the safety of operations, the witness said, but extensive expenditures for this purpose will be necessary with any material increase in business. Repair of rolling stock, which has been retired during the slack period, also will increase costs greatly with any large increase in business, he said.

Atlanta Store Sales Show Large Increase

Atlanta federal reserve district's increase in department store sales for last December over the same month of 1932 was the third highest in the country, the federal reserve board revealed Thursday in Washington. The Atlanta district's increase was 21 per cent, the district being led only by Dallas, with 23 per cent, and Kansas City, with 22 per cent.

Other districts ranged from Chinezae. The board's index placed department store selling in December at 68 on the basis of the 1923-1925 average as 100, which compared with 65 in November and 70 in October. In comparison with a year ago, the value of sales for December was 7 per cent larger; when allowance is made for the fact that there was one less trading day in 1933 than in 1932, the increase is about 12 per cent, the board reported.

MISTRIAL DECLARED

IN MATTHEWS CASE

Mistrial was declared Thursday night in the case of T. E. Matthews, former member of the East Point council, who was charged in Judge Woods' court with driving while in toxicated.

The jury was unable to agree and was dismissed a 6:30 o'clock by order of Judge Woods. Matthews was arrested October 30, 1933, while a member of council, and charged with operating a car while under the influence of whisky. In his defense, he contended his arrest was a political vengeance trick and said he was not drinking and was on his way to a council committee meeting at the time. He was defeated for re-election. His trial will come up again later.
